The Fox Guarantee

If you should ever have cause to complain about our products or service - please make your complaint to either of the partners. Nobody likes to receive complaints, but we'd sooner you made them to us, and got some action, than to other folk. The address and telephone details are shown above and elsewhere in this publication.

For authentic reproduction of life-size liveries in model form, it is essential that careful reference is made to photographic evidence of the loco you are trying to recreate. Whilst detailed instructions are usually provided to motive power depot painting staff, it is not unusual for variations to be outshopped which, to say the least, do not conform to said instructions.

Fox Transfers are unable to provide details other than those contained in general specifications for each livery. Much evidence will be gained from trawling the internet and the thousands of publications which have appeared over the years. And remember: all vehicles have two sides!

TRANSFERS AND ETCHED PLATES

Prices

The price codes provided in this catalogue (after each item) should be read with the product price code list provided with this publication and are effective immediately. They supersede all previous prices. Fox Descriptive Price Lists are published normally every six months, sometimes more frequently if the volume of new releases warrants this. Please check with us that you are using the current Descriptive Price List. Our 'price year' is from 1 August until 31 July.

Orders paid by cheque or Postal Order and not carrying the correct amount will be returned.

Safety

Fox Etched Products comprise elements with extremely sharp edges and corners. They are not toys and are unsuitable for use by children.

Ancillary Plates

The word 'crest' or 'plaque' or 'motif' where shown in the listings after a locomotive's name indicates the inclusion of one or more pairs of ancillary plates appropriate to the specific format. These plates may comprise some form of heraldic device, or logo, motif or other graphic symbol or typographic addendum.

Packaging Numbers

Some plate sets may be supplied with a different running or TOPS numberset on the mounting card from that which was ordered. This will only occur when the plates are identical to those ordered and indicates that the plates concerned were fitted to more than one locomotive at one period or another. All our Modern Image plates are filed under the TOPS (Total Operations Processing System) sequences - with very few exceptions - and experience shows that this is the best method.

What you get

The plates detailed in this catalogue are made from fine grade brass and/or stainless steel, and the designs are etched to shape and size. Brass plates are treated against tarnishing. Where applicable, the transfers which adorn the plates are hand-printed and hand applied. Each colour is separately applied by hand in both transfer and paint formats.

Future Products

The Fox range of etched plates has been in preparation since the early 1990s. Those items which are not listed here are likely to be produced in the future if deemed viable. Please telephone for individual availability.

Despatch Times

Fox etched plates are produced in small quantities and finished by hand, as mentioned above. Owing to the huge range of different plates and the colour variants and formats in which many are available, it is impossible, impracticable and uneconomic to maintain large ready-to-go stocks of any given item.

Some plates take up to an hour to finish, spread over four or five days. Please bear this in mind before ordering.

FOR THESE REASONS, THERE MAY BE A DELAY IN THE PREPARATION AND DESPATCH OF YOUR SELECTED PLATES. WE SHALL TRY TO ADVISE YOU OF ANY LIKELY DELAY WHERE APPLICABLE AND THE ANTICIPATED DESPATCH DATE.

Exhibitions

Since February 2007 we have been unable to take our stand to exhibitions. This has been caused by ill-health, economics, the dramatically increased size of our range and the necessity of maintaining our service to all our customers, worldwide.

Errors and omissions excepted

We have spent a great deal of time and care compiling this list. The information comes from a huge range of sources and we cannot guarantee that all of the detail is correct. If you are aware of any glaring errors or of any significant omissions to details of existing plates, please do let us know.

British Railways Titled Train Headboards

These headboards, with their raised beading and lettering in Gill Sans typeface to match the then current BR house style, were introduced by British Railways in the early 1950s. The size of the lettering varied according to the length of the title, often with the word 'THE' in larger lettering. There was a number of standard board sizes and shapes common to most regions, although the Southern was unique in its use of large rectangular boards with radiused corners. According to our information, some titles were displayed concurrently on boards of different design.

The background colour of all boards was originally black, although the Southern changed to green almost immediately after their introduction. By the mid-1950s, local variations began to appear on other regions, with London Midland and some Western boards in red. The Eastern's preference was for black, although Kings Cross Top Shed opted for dark (similar to Oxford) blue. The Scottish Region's preference was for light blue. With many boards still sporting black grounds right up to the end of the steam era, the logic behind the application of colours is difficult to ascertain. Long-distance inter-regional expresses would change locos once and sometimes twice during the course of their journey. Usually, headboards were not 'swapped': the replacement loco would back onto the train with its own headboard, supplied by the local shed and therefore finished in its preferred colour, or simply a suitable and available board, already in place.

The Western Region introduced its own, more ornate, headboards with cream backgrounds in the mid 1950s, (the Fox listing of these is shown after the section on 'plain' headboards). The original headboards were still frequently used across the country and, in the 1960s, were often carried by Warships and Westerns on the Western Region, Deltics on the Eastern Region and Peaks on the Midland Region which had supplanted their mainline steam predecessors on the express workings. On the London Midland, the 'Condor' freight working, shared by both steam and diesel locos, sported a unique design, with stencil design lettering tapered from top to bottom and ground split vertically into red and blue halves on an otherwise standard format board.

The 'Condor' headboard is just one of a huge number of eye-catching designs available in 4mm scale (for '00' gauge) from Fox. These are supplied etched-to-shape in stainless steel and are ready-painted as detailed below. PLEASE DON'T FORGET TO STATE THE BACKGROUND COLOUR YOU REQUIRE WHEN YOU ORDER!

We recommend the use of a small ball of Blu-Tac® fixed to the back of each headboard. This method of attachment means that headboards can be swapped around from one locomotive to another.

In the post-war heyday of the ocean liner, British Railways Southern Region ran special expresses to convey outbound passengers from London Waterloo to Southampton Docks, and to transport inbound voyagers in the opposite direction.

We currently offer miniaturisations of no less than twenty of the special train headboards fitted to the incumbent locomotives.

A Growing range of FULLY INTERCHANGEABLE Coach Boards British Railways Era

Our first presentation in this series actually puts the onus on you to do some work! It's our Do-it-Yourself set for the creation of destination names which we are unlikely to produce as standard items.

Included in this set are sixteen stainless steel destination boards primed, painted in British Railways Western Region brown and gloss-varnished to enable you to apply the waterslide decals more easily and, if you choose, remove them and replace with a different train name or destination.

Also included is a sheet of Gill Bold Capitals alphabet in white. These are reproductions of the typeface used by British railways; the transfers are, of course available separately.

FEPCB4101FP	: Fret of 16 coachboards finished in BR Western Region brown, plus a sheet of FRH 4035/001/ There are lots of characters on each sheet - 60 'A's for instance - so your additional requirements may not be too great :	057
FEPCB4101	: Fret of 16 coachboards only, as above :	037
FRH4035/001	: 1 sheet coachboard alphabet in white, as above :	017

Royal Scot Tartan Coachboards - Fully interchangeable

FEPCB4200	: Fret of 16 coachboards in stainless steel. Plus waterslide transfers supplied separately for you to apply in tartan background with crests plus the lettering THE ROYAL SCOT x 8 and LONDON-GLASGOW x 8. Sufficient for 4 coaches. Fully interchangeable	042
-----------	--	-----

The next set in this series is primarily for the London Midland region but in post-1956 maroon livery is also suitable for the Eastern and Scottish regions. The coachboards are presented exactly as those above but in BR maroon finish.

FEPCB4201FP	: Fret of 16 coachboards finished in BR London Midland maroon, plus a sheet of FRH 4035/001/ There are lots of characters on each sheet - 60 'A's for instance - so your additional requirements may not be too great :	057
FRH4035/001	: 1 sheet coachboard alphabet in white, as above :	017

Finally, we are pleased to offer the BR Southern region version which, of course, comprises coachboards finished in BR Southern region green.

FEPCB4401FP	: Fret of 16 coachboards finished in BR Southern region green, plus a sheet of FRH 4035/001/ There are lots of characters on each sheet - 60 'A's for instance - so your additional requirements may not be too great :	057

BR Coach Boards (1950s-1960s)

We have made a start on our latest series of coach boards. These initially are being introduced by demand - many of the boards below have been added to our range as a result of pre-orders by customers.

If you want a 'standard' board and it is not listed below, let us know and we will print it for you for the standard price.

In an attempt to make these as authentic as possible these are supplied as follows :

Each set comprises 16 blank stainless steel coach boards (44mm wide x 1.9mm high) plus 16 multi coloured transfers for you to apply and over varnish. These sets are NOT SUPPLIED fully made up. You can also purchase just the 16 transfers or the just the 16 steel boards, independently giving you the chance to mix and match. Unless otherwise stated, the transfers will be of one destination. We recommend that once the transfers have been applied (and allowed to dry for at least 24 hours) they are over varnished to 'seal' the transfer edges to the metalwork. Care should be taken if handling excessively.

F Diesel & Electric Locomotive Nameplate Sets

8

Especially in the later years, British Rail's locomotive naming policy resulted in many nameplates being transferred from engine to engine, frequently between machines of different classes. To compile a totally authoritative list at this stage would be an extremely time-consuming operation, and we have decided that, rather than delay publication of this list any further, we would indulge in some characteristic British compromise.

We offer our modern image nameplate listing in two sections, as follows:

Our first listing is of locomotives, by class and running number. Included are classes such as the 60s which were all named in BR days and which in privatisation have either been re-named or de-named or, indeed, have retained their BR-given names; as well as those such as the Deltics, the Warships and the Westerns the names of which remained constant throughout their lives.

Our second listing is in alphabetical sequence. This provides some, but by no means all of the alternative running or TOPS numbers which may have been allocated to given machines.

We do not claim that either of these lists is definitive or authoritative. There is still much work to be carried out, both in extending the scope and in the verification of numbers, colours etc. But it is correct to the best of our knowledge after having spent some two - three years (on and off) in its compilation, and given that demands for the listing forced a deadline for publication which precluded additional research. We welcome verified corrections to anything we have published.

Where the name appears on the relative style of plate in CAPITAL LETTERS, it is so shown in the listing. Where it appears in Upper and Lower Case Lettering, the same applies.

Where more than one running or TOPS number is shown adjacent to a given name in the listings, these numbers are not necessarily shown in sequence of allocation. As ever, it is necessary for you, the modeller, to do your homework on these matters to ensure that you are creating an accurate miniature of your selected engine.

Details of crests, badges, plaques or other subsidiary plates are now provided, again in as full a manner as we have been able. Generally speaking, the higher the price, the more plaques or subsidiary plates, or the more ornate the complete set. Only a relatively small proportion carry these plaques or plates.

As a footnote, you may be interested to learn that, unlike some other manufacturers, it is not our policy to delete any correct nameplate set once it has been included in our range.

At the risk of boring you to tears, we must take this opportunity to stress our previously-mentioned notes on availability of etched plates.

All plates are produced in large sheet form, with many different items on each sheet.

Only a small number of sheets are produced in each batch. Demand for each set of plates varies dramatically, and it is not always possible, therefore, to supply customers' requirements by return, even by swapping plate masters from sheet to sheet. Add the time taken to finish each set of plates by hand, and you have some idea of why, from time to time, we have to keep our valued customers 'on hold': please try to state acceptable alternatives in addition on your order if at all possible.

Surprisingly, we are frequently asked whether our prices include two nameplates. The answer is YES : if the prototype carried two nameplates, then our replica set includes two. Train headboards are only sold as 'singles' because each train usually only carried one headboard. 50149 in Railfreight General livery only carried one warship crest - but a pair of nameplates, and that is what comes in the set. Some locomotives carry different nameplates on each side, eg 37411 carries a CAERPHILLY CASTLE plate on one side, and a plate with the Welsh translation CASTELL CAERFFILI on the other. Ditto 37416 Sir Robert MacAlpine, on the opposite side of which is a plate carrying his nickname Concrete Bob.

'The Warships': Classes 41, 42 and 43

The '600 Series' machines - Class 41 - were built by North British in Glasgow, introduced in 1958/1959. Of the '800 Series', D800 - D832 and D866 - D870 were built in the British Railways (ex-GWR) works at Swindon, and the intermediate batch, D833 - D865 commissioned from North British.

The livery story comprises three principal periods: Brunswick Green with pale grey-blue bodyside stripe (from introduction); Maroon; Rail blue to the end. In the mid-sixties, small yellow warning panels were added to the ends, followed around the turn of the decade by full yellow ends.

Running numbering in the 'green' and 'maroon' periods comprised the condensed style in white, - with seriffed 'D' prefixes, available from Fox on sheet FRH4005 and FRH4005/4A plus FRH4005/4B, the latter two packs giving fully-made-up numbering for the 800 series. On repainting in Rail Blue, these were changed to the 'Rail' typestyle, the 'D' prefixes being removed after the end of the steam era. This numbering is available from Fox on sheet F4310.

BR motif application, generally speaking, was as follows: Green period: Later BR steam totem, Fox sheet FRH4002; Maroon period: BR coaching stock roundel: Fox sheet FRH4011; blue period BR white double arrows: Fox sheet F4300/2. Overhead live wire warning flashes (both designs) may be obtained on Fox sheet F4214, or early design only: FRH4020. Data (traffic) panels come on sheet F4360 (later) and F4360/2 (earlier design). Route availability discs (as used on GWR/BR Western Region steam locos) which were only affixed to a few machines are included on sheets FRH4005/4A and 4B as mentioned above.

All plates for these classes are in etched stainless steel and include a pair of worksplates as appropriate.

(North British) Class 41 'Warships'

All plates are available in either black or red although the prototype machines did not necessarily carry both colours. Modellers should check with authoritative references before ordering. Generally Green liveries carried red background plate; Maroon and Rail blue liveries carried black background plates. Includes NBL diamond worksplates in stainless steel.

All plates are available in either black or red although the prototype machines did not necessarily carry both colours. Modellers should check with authoritative references before ordering. Generally Green liveries carried red background plates; Maroon and Rail blue liveries carried black background plates. Includes BR Swindon worksplates in stainless steel.

Class 47

This section includes several notable sub-groups of plates, viz The Royal Locos, the Great Western 150 celebrations engines, the Res (Rail express systems) squadron and the early BR Western Region - allocated machines. The latter were divided into two sub-groups - those with names in sans-serif capitals and those in seriffed capitals, and both are listed in the first two sub-sections. We also list the later incarnations of these plates in terms of background colour and loco TOPS number

Class 50

All plates are available in red, but there are one or two exceptions as you will see from the list. The 'Sir Edward Elgar' set is produced in anti-tarnish-treated etched brass, crests for the appropriate engines are also in etched brass and the standard nameplates are in etched stainless steel. Modellers should check with authoritative references before ordering as to which precise format is required.

Class 52 'Westerns'

All sets include matching number plates and works plates in etched stainless steel, and D1000 incorporates the 'cast' Lion & Wheel totem carried solely by that engine. All plates are available in black and nine are available also in red for fitting to those engines which carried the green livery. Modellers should check with authoritative references before ordering. Maroon and Rail blue liveries carried black background plates; green liveries carried red background plates.

Class 59/0 Foster Yeoman

The plate sets for the first series of Class 59 engines are produced in stainless steel and comprise pairs of nameplates, numberplates, works plates and data panels for 59001-59004. Works plates were not cast for 59004.

59003 was 'exported' to Europe during Foster Yeoman livery days and therefore never carried plates with black ground.

59001 and 59005 have been re-liveried in the Aggregate Industries scheme and the plate sets are available now in AI blue. As we go to press in early 2010, we have produced sets in this colour in anticipation of the remaining locos being repainted.
